

Top Female Wealth Manager Recognised as Positive Role Model at Africa Gender Mainstreaming Awards

Cape Town | September 2026

Nicola Langridge, CFP® wealth manager at Private Client Holdings

Wealth Manager Nicola Langridge CFP® has been named the Overall Winner of the Positive Role Model Award for the Cape Regional Finals of the 2026 Africa Gender Mainstreaming Awards.

The Positive Role Model Award recognises women who inspire and uplift others through their actions, character and leadership. According to the awards programme, recipients are selected for their ability to motivate positive change, demonstrate integrity, lead by example and make a meaningful impact in their workplaces and communities. The award celebrates individuals who not only achieve personal excellence, but who also empower others to do the same.

Langridge is a Wealth Manager at multi-family office, Private Client Holdings (PCH) and is widely recognised for her commitment to helping individuals and families navigate complex financial decisions with confidence and clarity. She is particularly passionate about encouraging women to take an active role in managing their financial futures and building long-term financial security.

"This award is incredibly meaningful because it recognises the importance of encouraging and supporting others," says Langridge. "Throughout my career, I have seen how transformative financial confidence can be. Whether working with clients, colleagues or the broader community, my goal has always been to help people, especially women, make informed decisions that enable them to achieve their aspirations."

Langridge joined Private Client Holdings in 2016 and has established herself as one of South Africa's leading financial planning professionals. She was recently recognised as the Financial Planning Institute's Financial Planner of the Year for 2025/2026 and is known for her goals-based, family office approach to wealth management, helping clients align their financial decisions with their long-term life objectives.

Nicola has a particular interest in empowering women to take greater ownership of their financial affairs and believes that financial planning should be as much about personal goals and values as it is about investment performance.

Commenting on the accolade, Co-Founder and Director of PCH, Andrew Ratcliffe, said the award reflects Nicola's professional excellence as well as her commitment to mentoring, leadership and client service.

"Nicola embodies the values that the Positive Role Model Award seeks to recognise. Her technical expertise is matched by her genuine desire to help others succeed, and she has become a trusted adviser to clients and an inspiring colleague within our business. We are delighted to see her contribution recognised on this platform."

The Africa Gender Mainstreaming Awards seek to recognise individuals and organisations advancing positive gender representation, inclusion and leadership across the continent. By celebrating role models who lead through their actions, the awards encourage greater participation, visibility and opportunity for women across all sectors.